Johannes Andreae

c. 1270 – 1348

Alternative Names

Giovanni d’Andrea (LC); Johannes Andreae Bononiensis; Giovanni Andrea; Jean d’Andrea; Jean André; Johannes Andree

Biography/Description

Born c.1270, was the most renowned and successful canonist of the later Middle Ages, referred to by contemporaries as iuris canonici fons et tuba. Johannes studied law in Bologna: Roman law under Martinus Sillimanus and Riccardus Malumbra; canon law under Egidius Fuscarariis and Guido de Baysio. J. taught canon law at Bologna from 1301/02 until his death in 1348, save for 1307–09 and 1319, when he was teaching in Padua. J. was the author of the Bolognese University statutes of 1317. Johannes Calderinus was his student and later his adoptive son. Paulus de Liazaris and Johannes de Sancto Georgio were his students, and Johannes counted Cino da Pistoia and Petrarch among his friends. J. remained a layman, was married and had children. His productivity in canon law was enormous. Most important among his works were extensive commentaries on all of the official decretal collections, which he revised several times. J. had a keen interest in the history of his discipline, and often noted the contributions of earlier and even some contemporary jurists in his various writings. J. died in Bologna in the plague of 1348.

- Novella in Decretales.* This title covers a number of revisions of a commentary on the Decretals of Gregory IX which culminated in the Novella. The first recension was a series of additiones on the Decretales written before the publication of the Clementines (1317). The second recension was an expansion on the first. A third recension, or perhaps simply a mixture of I and II seems also to have circulated before the work reached its final form by Repetitiones which had been written apart from this work were integrated into it and revised with the rest of the commentary. - No. 12 Quaestiones mercuriales. This collection of quaestiones was first collected under various titles before the publication of the Clementines and perhaps even before the publication of the Liber Sextus (see Cesena, Bibl. Maletest. S.II.3). After the publication of the Clementines and after Johannes had produced his gloss upon them, he revised and added to the Quaestiones mercuriales, rearranging them according to the rules of law. All the manuscripts of the revised version have the single title, De regulis iuris.
